Weekly Bulletin #50

"God is here on earth the most popular of beings. In the midst of the fields, leaning upon the implement of his labor, the cultivator of the soil lifts his eyes to heaven and he names God to his children by a motion as simple as his soul. The poor call upon Him, the dying invoke Him, the wicked fear Him, the just man blesses Him, kings surrender to Him their crown, armies place Him at the head of their batalions, victory gives Him thanks, defeat asks Him for help, the people arm themselves through Him against their tyrants; there is no time, nor place, nor occasion, nor feeling where God does not appear and where He is not named. What is their in this word? 'Shall I solemnly assert it upon oath?' Nothing but a name, it is true, but that is the name of God. It is the name that all nations have adored, in whose honor temples were built, priesthoods consecrates, prayers addressed. It is the greatest, the holiest, the most efficacious, the most popular name that the lips of man have received the grace to pronounce." (Lacordaire)

(Would it be wrong to note that the modern age has a different "attitude" toward God????)
