In the Monastery of Christ the King in Cullman, Alabama, on the twenty-fifth day of October in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Ninety-five, in very troubled times when men of all persuasions deal with the delicate sanctity of truth, Robert McKenna, of the Order of Preachers, Bishop, placed his consecrated hands upon the heads of Michael Joseph Sautner, of the Order of Saint Benedict, and Sebastian Mark Glentz, of the Order of Saint Benedict, and the grace of Christ's resurrection went out from him and went into the souls of these men and they became priests — priests of the Sacred Order of Melchisedech.

Let it be the prayer of God's holy people that as these men of God raise their consecrated hands, the grace of God will go out from them to enlighten the souls of the elect whose will is good and the souls of them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death.

Let him, however, who places anathema on this action which we have performed take heed: let him consider in his heart from whence his anathema comes!

!Priests Forever!
