THE BENEDICTINE MONASTIC

It is not in outward activities such as owning and operating schools, colleges, hospitals, or other public facilities that the real strength of Benedictine monasticism lies. It never has been. Besides, and for example, especially in America, the operation of religious/secular institutes of higher learning has not been a completely satisfactory endeavor. The history of American Benedictine monastic educational institutes of higher learning gives sufficient proof of admirable effort but not lasting success. Several such institutes have closed their religious doors. What few operated colleges remain existence have had to come under the control of a lay board and must operate according to the norms of accrediting agencies and the regulations of government grants departments. Even the monastic property on which are located the various school buildings and playgrounds has been deeded over to the school board and is no longer owned or controlled by the monastic body.

The direct contribution of Benedictine monasticism to civilization is not, and never has been, education, hospital or other active work. We do not here overlook the very early monastic schools, often small and not of long duration. The main

our prayers and good wor (confidential information) and retu to the Abbey BEFORE JUNE 2007. This paper will be kept on the High Altar next to the Tabernacle for the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, we remember you and your dear low ones - both living and departed.	(confidential information) and retuto the Abbey BEFORE JUNE 2007. This paper will be kept on the High Altar next to the Tabernacle of the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, we remember you and your dear lov	IN	TENTIC)NS 1	for wh	ich yo	u wis to the Abbey BEFORE JUNE 2007. This paper will be kept on the High Altar next to the Tabernacle for the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, we remember you and your dear love.	to the Abbey BEFORE JUNE 2007. This paper will be kept on the High Altar next to the Tabernacle of the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, we remember you and your dear love.						work retu
2007. This paper will be kept on the High Altar next to the Tabernacle for the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, we remember you and your dear love.	2007. This paper will be kept on the High Altar next to the Tabernacle of the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, we remember you and your dear lov
High Altar next to the Tabernacle f the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, w remember you and your dear love	High Altar next to the Tabernacle of the months of the Sacred Heart at the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, we remember you and your dear lov
the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, w remember you and your dear love	the Precious Blood. The Monks, their daily prayer and work, w remember you and your dear lov
their daily prayer and work, w remember you and your dear love	their daily prayer and work, w remember you and your dear lov	the	month	s of th	he Sac	red He	art ar
remember you and your dear love	remember you and your dear lov
remember you and your dear love ones - both living and departed.	remember you and your dear lov ones - both living and departed.	the	eir daily	pray	yer an	d wor	k, wi
ones - both living and departed.	ones - both living and departed.	rei	nember	you a	and yo	our dea	r love on	es - both	livin	g and d	leparted	i.
		_
		_
		_					-
		_
		_
		_					- 0
		_
		_
		_
		_
		_
		-
		_
		_
21	21	_
21
		_		_		-	-