There Must Be Effort

Our whole life is a constant renewal of effort; it is a constant revival of faith and hope. Every day, every hour, every minute must be a resurgence of love, but this can be done only if God's grace is in the soul. The journey of the life of a true Christian resembles the journey that Jesus and Mary made at every step from the squalid stable to the darkness of Calvary. We are repeatedly forced to learn more how to descend to the utter poverty and helplessness of Bethlehem, so that we can, with strength, rise to the ultimate sacrifice of Calvary. □
